

Sustainability Analyst: Citi Investment Research and Analytics, London

Candidates should be able to provide evidence of the following:

Educational background or significant work experience in some aspect of sustainable development

Experience of working in capital markets

Working in a collaborative fashion/across department/sector boundaries

Independent thinking and idea generation

Ability to write about sustainable development in a manner accessible to non-specialists

Existing relationship with SRI community in London and/or Europe

Personal interest in social investment issues

CVs and examples of previous research articles/reports should be sent to meg.brown@citi.com by 26 March 2010